Special Dispatch to the Louisville Journal.

WASHINGTON, August 27.

SENATOR FOWLER.
Senator Fowler, in his published statement, was concerned in preferring charges against Commissioner Butler.

The NEW ORLEANS COLLECTOR.

Perry Fuller, of Kansas, was received by the city yesterday as an ambassador from the Democracy of Virginia to President Johnson, to discuss the question as to how far the President will go in holding the Presidential election in Virginia, in spite of the electoral college law passed by Congress, defining what State shall vote. Mr. Fuller dined with the President last night, in company with several members of the Cabinet, when the matter was discussed, but no developments have been made as to the result.

THE NEW ORLEANS COLLECTOR.

Selden, Collector of Internal Revenue at Norfolk, Virginia, has reported to the Department the slight discrepancy of two hundred thousand dollars in the accounts of his carpet-pedaling business. So we go. It is the fewest number of these gigantic swindles that ever reach the public, being suppressed by the radical plunders for fear of unnecessarily agitating the country; not that their discovery would have a deleterious effect upon the prospects of their party.

MURDER OF LEWIS.

The hanging of Mrs. Surratt with all the circumstances attending it, has been discussed by all the city papers. General Hunter publishes a card, which he says headed the list of those who petitioned the President for her pardon, and looked on the execution of the poor woman with contempt, while many thousand rebels, who deserved hangings, were left unhang.

ROCKAWAY—LAW.

The Rosecrans Lee conference is attracting considerable attention here, though it is doubtful if the Southern Generals will see the good to result to the country from publishing a report of any description at present.

AT THE ALBANY MEETING.

There was no Cabinet meeting today, and Secretaries Safford, McCulloch, and Welles were at the White House with the President, who also saw a few visitors.

APPOINTMENTS.

Secretary McCulloch is appointing gaugers under the new law, but no examiners, owing to the misunderstanding with Rollins. This latter is engaged in endeavoring to execute a little sharp practice, having instructed the United States Revenue Department to perform the duties of examiners until these officers shall have been appointed, under the new tax law, by the proper authority, which will not be done as long as he can prevent it. It remains to see what action Secretary McCulloch will take to regard to this fact.

TO THE MADE MEN.

Mr. Eliot, Collector of Customs at the port of Mobile, the only native holding that position, is in the city.

CINCINNATI.

Since the defeat of the champion baseball club, the Unions, of Miamia, N. Y., by the Cincinnati, of this city, great interest has been manifested in the national game. On Saturday next the Beckers of this city, the rivals of the Cincinnati, will play the return game with the latter on the Union grounds. A large audience is expected and the game will be a close one.

HAMILTON.

Special Dispatch to the Louisville Journal.

HAMILTON, Ohio, August 27.
The session of the Cincinnati Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at this place, opened at 8 o'clock this morning with a large attendance than on yesterday. Outside of the members the audience is principally composed of ladies, many of them from abroad. Appearances were made for in-and-out speaking-to-night, when the Conference adjourned till eight o'clock to-morrow morning.

CHICAGO.

Special Dispatch to the Louisville Journal.

Chicago, August 27.
General Grant is expected to arrive in this city from Galveston this afternoon. The Republicans of Chicago will give him a grand reception, when it is supposed he will again speak his celebrated piece.

Entomely, a young lady living on Spring street, was crushed to death to-day by the Madison bridge, by trying to cross it as the bridge was swinging open.

ST. LOUIS.

Special Dispatch to the Louisville Journal.

St. Louis, August 27.
A man named Michael Leonard com-mitted a double murder in this city yesterday. He had an old-standing family quarrel with a man named Burns and his wife. Meeting them a short distance from his house, Burns and his wife commenced an altercation with him, when he drew a knife, stabbed Mrs. Burns to the heart, and stabbed her husband four times.
